A BUDGET OF GOOD STORIES.

[Toln By F Lany,]

Mrs Hessey continues in The Blonthly Review her gossippy reminiscences entitled Quaint Memerles." I remember my father telling me (she asys) of a noted Nonconformist preacher of that day in London who, in his anxiety to arouse his congregation from their inertness, and to move them to personal activity, tranchantly expressed himself thus ; * You won't take any trouble for yourselves, you won't move a finger. In fact, you all think you'll get to heaven by hanging on to my coat-tails. But Tifes. take care you den't, I'll cheat you, for I'll go in a short jacket. This kind of thing would somewhat astonish a London congregation at the present day. Dr. Mansel, the late Dean of St. Paul's, told me a story of a meeting he once atten

tended, where a local dissenting preacher got up and addressed the meeting with, " My friends, you've got these learned English clergy here, and I should just like to sak them a few plain questions; You see, my friends, they make a lot of being? able to read different languages, but I am thankful to say I have got my own English Bible, and that's enough for me, What, my friends, do you mean to tell me that you suppose St. Paul road all that gibber-ish.? No, no, my friends, you may depend upon it St. Paul talked as good honest English as you and I do. Now I just want to ask them a question out of my Eng. lish Bible, which I'll trouble them to enswer. Now, they are always wanting to baptice the babies. Now, where do they find that in the English Bible ? I read, "Except a man be born again," Now, my friends, it don't say a boy, nor a gal, nor even a coman, much less a babby, but a man must be born again. Now answer me that?' Dr Mansel got up and said he could not congratulate himself upon knowing only the English language. On the contrary, he was deeply thankful to feel that he could read the Bible in the language. ago in which it was originally written, But that was neither here nor there. Now, to answer his friend out of his own English Bible, it is written that a woman' rememberath no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world," Now, my friends, it does not say a boy, it does not say a girl, and it certainly does not say a baby, but a man that is born into the world.'

A cousin of mine went to take duty in a remote hamlet in Lucoinshire. He wasastonished to find a great part of the west end of the church, under the tower, stacked almost to the roof with faggots. He told the clork, after the service, that he boped they would be taken away, anything so unseemly could not be allowed in a church. Lor', sir! Muster A— (mentioning a farmer's name) 'would never hear of they faggots being moved. Why, they do make capital ferroting. There's a wonderful lot of rabbits gots in there, and beautiful spor 'tis too, I can tell you. No, 'twould never do to move they faggots! In the winter my cousin would often receive a. message from the farmer saying it was so cold that nobody wouldn't go to church to-day, but if Muster Paul liked to come; there'd he no objection to his having service in the kitchen.

There was a curate in the neighbouring hamlet who was anxious to make it a model village. But the people thought him toomoddlesome in some things, and especially resented his wanting to choose their child. ren's names. So they kept their children back till be went for his holidays, and then brought them all to be christened, and called them the most outlandish names. remember one called her son Maher-shalalhash-baz, and the unfortunate youth went by the name of Baz as long as he lived. He may be slive now; I do not know. But that was not so consical as what occurred to Mr Roberts, a chaplam of Magdalen, who was baptising a gipsy child at Drayton. When he asked for the name they said: 'If the gentleman would be pleased to choose himself they did not mind as leng as it was a Scripture name. But he told them he would prefer their choosing for themselves ; se after much consultationthey said they had agreed that they wished is called 'Beelzebubi' and when he remonastrated that he could not possibly give the child that name, they said, Why, it's a Bible name, sir, so it must be a good un.

A Lady's First Impressions.

First impressions are proverbially subject to revision, and the lady who is writing for the Empire Review an account of her experience on a Rhodesian farm may modify her views later on. But her story is interesting. We quote from her diary :-Tugsday, May 11th. - Was awakened very early by the cook-boy with tea. I don't like the look of him at all. He wears. a murderous-looking knife in his belt, a flower in one ear; and has a most fericious expression. His garments also are conspicuous for the rents in them, so possibly the niggers in clothes have some patent ideas about ventilation. Breakfast very "tinney." Tinned milk, Linned butter, tinned jam, tinned fish, tin cups and saucers, and tin plates. Beginning to feel a bit of a tinney martyr myself. After breakfast

Kopjes everywhere, in assorted sizes, Kopjes to the fight, kopjes to the left, kopjes in the fcont, and kopjes at the back. Wonder if I shall ever got to like See only, deadly sameness at Have a vague feeling I might DRESSELHUYS presently die of kopjes on the brain. . The washing up, I discovered, is all done on the ground outside in about two pints of water. Had bully heef, pointoes, brend, and treacle for luncheon. Men all depressed about prospects. Everything seems to be going wrong generally. Horses and mules dying on all sides of 'borso sickness.' Five mules gone in no time at the farm Diseases among the cattle. The first locusts appearing ready to eat the crops.

It did not seem to matter, so I merely asked with an effortat jecularity that made me feel my face was askew : 'Sport any good ' T've tramped miles, he murmured, and never seen a blooming thing to shoot but a HONGKONG' ICE COMPANY, LTD. bally butterfly,' Somebody shouted 'Scoff, which, being interpreted, means dinner, and we went sadly to more bully beef and addition of soup and tea—one drinks tea an average of five times a day in Rhodosia; the General Managers have this day declarand the natives are clever enough at making ed an INTERIM DIVIDEND for the half. soup out of nothing, which tastes of werse year ended 30th June, 1995, of FOUR than nothing. He shook his head and stared depantly. from which I gathered that he did not THE HONGKONG AND KOWLOON understand English, and I might as well address the dirty little cooking stove. Felt afraid to open another tin, and appalled by the dirt generally, so retired to the sitting-room to consider. Found 'considering' a most unsatisfictory proceeding, so put on a hat and went for a walk. First discovered some niggers pulling mealies with Dick Fortescogenerally known as Dandy Dick '-looking on to see that they did not sleep in holders in the stead of work. Last saw Dick in tall hat July, 1905. and frock coat in Piccadilly. He new wore a probistorie hat, no collar, an eld fiancel shirt, and boots that defy description. We are great pals, so I stopped for a chat, and was amused to note the perfect serenity and case with which he graced either his present circumstances, or his London ones. When I left him to his 'bossing up of the niggers,' I next ran into my husband superintending the shelling of the maslies. felt inclined to offer him a copper, for he looked more like a tramp than anything white I have seen in Rhodesia. A vague consciousness that in doing so he was probably realising one of his heart's delights, made me heave a little sigh. Personally, I prefer him in his late Hussar uniform.

Friday, May 14th .- Managed to make some pastry this merning. Used a bottle for rolling pin, and rolled the pastry out on the bottom of a tin dish turned upside down-the whole being achieved upon the dining-room table. I also put some yeast in the sun to rise-Tomee's bread being distinc'ly related to cannon balls, and more ! useful to throw at the 'niggors' heads than

Saturday, May 15th .- My husband drove me to Salisbury-to-day in the new Cape cart. Ye gods and little fishes I shall I ever forget it! It took about two hours and a half, and, for the first hour at least, I did little else but wonder which side we should turn over, and in what condition I might expect to find myself on the ground; Cape carts are built high, and they have a hood to keep off the sun and rain, and to be boxed up inside this hood, with one. wheel going over boulders or banks a feet or two high, is a most fearsome experience. Looking back later, one's chief wonder is why any one should want to go to Salisbury at all ! To a newcomer it appears a most gruesome place,
